

Eyesight Nearly Gone, He Edits Paper By Memory

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Nov. 28.—POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Nov. 27.—Dwight H. Brown, of Popular Bluff, edits and manages a daily newspaper with his ears and memory.

Although not totally blind, Brown's eyesight failed him when he was eight years old, forcing him to quit school. His vision never returned sufficiently for him to read anything except large headlines on newspapers. He cannot distinguish features of persons farther than six feet away.

But he has a most unusual memory. Each day his secretary reads items of interest from exchanges, calling the page and column of the paper when reading them. It is not unusual for Brown to ask for items in a certain paper many weeks later, specifying the page, column and date where the item may be found.

While a reporter in the lower house of the Missouri state legislature during the forty-first general assembly a speech which one of the solons delivered was lost, and no record of it could be found. Brown arose and delivered the speech, virtually word for word, as the representative had delivered it. The feat created a sensation in the house, and all marveled at Brown's wonderful memory.

Brown writes his editorials on a typewriter but never reads them, because he cannot read small print. Proofreaders in his plant of the Daily American declare he seldom makes an error in typing news or editorials.

Brown obtained his education from his stepmother, who procured the proper literature and read and taught him at night.

"There is a liberal education in well-chosen literature," Brown said recently, "provided a person thinks while he reads. Do not read too fast. Take your time and absorb everything you read, and your vision will become broader and your intellect greater."

which he could not recover. He leaves his wife and one child.

A bus load, besides many people who went in their own cars, went to Argos Tuesday evening to attend the meeting of the Order of Eastern Star.

On account of the impossibility of the grand matron being present, Mrs. Floyd Bunnell, of Plymouth, was asked to take her place at the meeting, as she is the grand niece of the grand matron of the state.

A very pleasing program was given, talks made by the Argos members and Plymouth visitors. Three people were initiated into the Argos Chapter, and a very interesting meeting held.

The Athletics played the South Bend Business college last evening, and lost the game to the visitors by a score of 19 to 13.

Teach Sex to Parents, Not Children

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Sex instruction for parents, not children, is the solution to the modern morals problem.

The Chicago school board, with this idea in mind, will hold eight schools in morality and sex hygiene for the mothers and fathers of school children.

Several trustees of the board of education will conduct the night classes and carry to the parents the problems of sex hygiene, which they in turn are expected to convey to their children through individual instruction in the home.

Sex matters cannot be taught properly to school children except by their parents, Dr. Boieslaus Klarkowski, trustee of the school board and father of the plan, declared.

"Sex instruction should begin at home and not at school," said Klarkowski.

The night classes will be conducted in 50 different community centers. Members of the board who will direct the sex lectures include Dr. Klarkowski, Dr. John Dill Robertson and Dr. Sadie Bay Adair.

The teachings will include frank discussions of the younger generation's morals, according to Dr. Klarkowski.

"Parents will be taught to show their children the real meaning of sex, and to bring them up in an atmosphere that will compel right living," he said.

"Instead of talking about moral qualities, parents should see that their children's lives are first dominated by a spirit of right living in the home."

"Many parents try to frighten their children into righteousness with threats of the dire results of sex indiscretions."

"The child should be taught the meaning of true love, which comes from self control."

Corner Saloon Gone, Lima Loungers Have No Way to Dodge Job

LIMA, O., Nov. 28.—With the displacement of the corner saloon, its free lunch and warm "hanging out place," unemployed men, making the pretense of looking for a job, but in reality seeking a substitute for the lounging place of former days, have become somewhat of a problem to both Lima police and employment agencies, according to Chief of Police Lanker.

The chief has just completed a survey of the unemployment situation in Lima. Plenty of work at good wages is offered here, but there is a type of unemployed who refuse to accept jobs supplying honest-earned money, according to Chief Lanker.

Chief Lanker, who has been waging war on "street corner loafers," has voiced his desire to completely eliminate this "nuisance."

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The latest in Mexico is a bull-fighters' union, according to information received by New York labor leaders. Hereafter, according to this information, bull fighting will have to be done under strict union rules, or there will be no bull fights. Among those joining the union were picadores (bull prickers), banderilleros (dart throwers), matadores de toros (bull killers), and novilleros (red flag wavers and keepers of young bulls).
